Instructions for Using this Record Book

This record book is designed to be the place for you to keep records on your animal projects. Read through the book carefully and complete all sections. It is important that you do your own work, but ask your 4-H leader, Extension Agent, parents, or other 4-H volunteers for help when you do not understand something.

This project record book is for recordkeeping only. Information about how to raise these animals can be found in various 4-H Project Guides. Copies of project guides may be obtained from your local Virginia Cooperative Extension office.

1. Read through this book and familiarize yourself with the kinds of records you will need and where information should be recorded. Discuss the book with your parent and/or 4-H leader.
2. Complete essential information when you first start your project, such as the cover page and the project planning page. Share your goals with your 4-H leader.
3. Keep your records up to date. Record information as it occurs. Consider setting aside specific times during the project when you will work on your record book.
4. Write neatly and legibly. Use only one color ink. If typed, please use a different font or color to make the typing stand out more than the form text.
5. Include at least one photograph of you with your project animal, but do not include more than two pages of photos. Additional clippings should be displayed in a scrapbook, not this record book.
6. Maintain your book in a 3-ring notebook/binder or folder.
7. Write a project story that captures what happened during your project. Discuss your goals, your activities, your challenges, and your accomplishments. Project stories must be at least ten sentences.

Virginia Cooperative Extension programs and employment are open to all, regardless of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. An equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Issued in furtherance of Cooperative Extension work, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Virginia State University, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture cooperating. Edwin J. Jones, Director, Virginia Cooperative Extension, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg; M. Ray McKinnie, Administrator, 1890 Extension Program, Virginia State University, Petersburg.

Project Planning and Goal Setting

(Due by the January business meeting for signature)

This page should be completed at the start of your project and shared with your 4-H leader and farmer:

1. What do you want to learn at your host farm? Explain.

2. As a non-ownership member, your project animal is sponsored by a host farm. Explain the ways you will work to help your farmer?

Project Planning and Goal Setting (Continued)

3. What factors will you consider when selecting your project? (Examples include: breed, age, gender, price, muscling, wool, health, size, conformation, etc.)

4. If you win premium money, what do you plan to do with it?

After completing the Project Planning and Goal Setting, show to your 4-H leader and farmer for approval. Due by the January business meeting.

Animal Care and Management

Your project requires regular care and management. List the things necessary to take care of your project animals.

Please note if these items were done by you, your host farmer, or both.

Please include at least two for each box.

Include the following:

- Feeding and watering practices
- Grooming (clipping, trimming, foot care, etc.)
- Health practices and medicines – if possible include medication names and doses
- General Management (cleaning living area and feed pans, halter breaking, training, etc.)

Daily Care

Example: fed animal, gave fresh water, spent time with animal.

Weekly Care

Example: Cleaned feed and water containers, gave new bedding

Monthly Care

Example: Groomed my animal

Yearly Care

(Things done one time or occasionally throughout the year)

Example: Trimmed feet

Farm Work Session Learning

Throughout the season, you have the opportunity to visit your farm to learn and help your farmer. Please track these visits to show what you learned and did. Please include all dates visited for the month and some information about each session. If your farmer didn't hold a meeting that month, please indicate "no scheduled meetings."

There should be a minimum of eight farm work session dates. If any dates overlap with a project animal work sessions, there need to be activities unrelated to the project animal on that date. Overlap is limited to two sessions and must be approved by the farmer.
